A New Chapter for '3 People In Your Head':
Introducing 'Transactional Analysis Podcast'
Exam Corner

Editorial

Dear readers,
news covered in this issue are mostly related to exams outcomes for the past season. In that sense we can say that we are celebrating the success of our certified members from various parts of Europe. It is all about exams! Congratulations to you all on behalf of the EATA. You are welcome to join our organizational life and support it from your new TA status. In the EATA Newsletter, as usually, we are getting a concise review of the past year from the President's and the Executive Committee's perspective who remind us that having a good structure, clear communication and contact are the essence of transactional way of being in any group, especially in multi-cultural organization. To conclude with the content introduction from June issue lets mention the rebranding strategy of the exiting TA podcast, that is presented for us in details right after the President's Note.

Respectfully yours,
EATA Newsletter Editor
Kristina Brajovic Car

President's Note

Written by Sylvia Schachner

Dear members of Eata,

We are looking forward to the next EATA Council Meeting in Varna.

Delegates from 28 countries representing 44 TA associations will meet to connect, to discuss and to decide the main tasks of EATA which are:

- How to offer quality standards that will fulfill our general training standard, as well as specific needs of the different affiliated countries to be recognised by the professional national bodies and fitting in the European frame of reference. This is especially important for the field of psychotherapy, but for the other fields as well.

- How can we, as an international community go in contact with the members, stimulate them to participate and make this possible for all interested members.

- How can we take diversity and cultural differences into account, and, at the same time utilize what unites us and use our shared values as a resource?

- How can we make visible, that we, as a European community and as transaction analysts, have shared responsibility for peaceful and respectful coexistence and relationships in these difficult times?

During the Council, delegates will give and receive information on the work and projects of the various committees concerning above-mentioned topics.

In particular, I would like to draw attention to the reports and results of a two Task Forces that were mandated by the Council last year: The Task Force DEIA and The Task Force Social commitment. Both task forces worked intensively and in connection with EC, representatives of members and experts from outside.

You will find the outcomes of their work on our website after the July Council.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who volunteer many hours of their time throughout the year as representatives of their national associations, contributing their professional qualities and skills to the EATA committees and liaising between EATA and their national association. During Council, we will say goodbye to some officers and delegates and welcome new ones. This ongoing coming and going holds the EATA work alive, with open door to new energy and contribution, however it is challenging at the same time. For that reason, we are working on ways and processes how to make these transition processes fluent and to guarantee continuity on the level of organisational goals and vision.

And finally, I would like to invite all our members to get actively involved, to express their opinions and attitudes by answering the surveys created and shared by EATA Committees, to reach out to us via EATA webinars, during Zoom meetings, during conferences, trainings and all other possibilities for direct encounters. Inform yourself about ongoing developments by following us on Instagram and Facebook, by reading the monthly news or browse through our website that is constantly adapted and revised.

For now, I wish all of you for the upcoming summertime peace, joy and happiness!

A New Chapter for ‘3 People In Your Head’: Introducing ‘Transactional Analysis Podcast’! Statement

Written by John & Matt

Dear EATA Members,

We're thrilled to announce the exciting evolution of the "3 People In Your Head Podcast"! As of April 1st, we've rebranded to: Transactional Analysis Podcast (TAP).

You'll find our entire online presence updated with our new name, including our website and social media channels. To find us, simply search for "Transactional Analysis Podcast" on your preferred platforms.

This rebrand reflects our commitment to providing valuable content on Transactional Analysis and our aspiration for the podcast to become part of the canon of TA - in an auditory way, by becoming a companion resource to the TAJ. We've also restructured as a legally registered CIC (Community Interest Company) in the UK, establishing a board of directors to guide our future endeavors.

Introducing the TAP brand:

Our Logo

TRANSACTIONAL ANALYSIS PODCAST

The three circles are not linked to ego states although given the context of the podcast some may think in this direction, rather they are an abstract graphical representation of sound waves or a megaphone to represent we are primarily an auditory media organisation.

Our Website – <https://tapodcast.com>

Brand Identity:

Transactional Analysis Podcast - Conversations on the theory, application and spirit of TA. Transactional Analysis Podcast curates a diverse auditory library of accessible learning resources for the TA community.

We deliver content in an engaging way, where listeners feel inspired and connected to the global TA community.

All fields of application, schools, approaches and traditions of TA have a voice and place on our podcast.

We facilitate conversations with a globally diverse range of guests who share their work, experiences, ideas and opinions on Transactional Analysis.

We have chosen the name, Transactional Analysis Podcast as we recognise the benefit of aligning with the underpinning principles of TA in being clear, direct and transparent about who we are as an organisation.

Our Mission:

Create and curate a diverse auditory library of accessible learning resources for the TA community and beyond. Deliver content in an engaging way, where listeners feel inspired and connected to the global TA community.

Our Vision:

Our vision is to build a global, well-established, autonomous platform which expresses the heart, ethics and theory of TA, recognised within and outside the TA community as a credible source of knowledge, insight and learning.

Our Values:

Learning

Making learning accessible, stimulating and enlivening.

Inclusivity

Recognising everyone and the unique contributions they make.

Diversity

Covering a wide and diverse range of topics and experiences by inviting guests from across the world.

Connectivity

Sharing insights, forging relationships, stimulating collaboration and delivering useful content.

Independence

Producing and publishing free, independent content.

Introducing the Transactional Analysis Podcast CIC

Transactional Analysis Podcast (TAP) is a CIC (Community Interest Company). A CIC is a limited company that benefits the community rather than private shareholders. To set up a CIC you need a 'community interest statement', explaining what your business plans to do.

Our Community interest statement is:

“Our purpose is to express creativity, bring people together and hold a line of neutrality and empowerment of ourselves and the TA community.

We are driven to promote inclusiveness, and diversity and tap into the unseen potential of TA. TAP is a platform to enhance the learning and enthusiasm for anyone with an interest in Transactional Analysis - from those with casual curiosity, TA trainees through to anyone already qualified in Transactional Analysis.

The TA podcast is a strong collaborative force, playing to our strengths, while also constantly exploring and re-imagining our evolution as an organisation. TAP facilitates connection, an opportunity to grow a network and strengthen a sense of belonging within the TA community.”

The CIC is legally registered in the UK and is a not-for-profit organisation with a board of directors. Currently, this board has 3 members; James Longwell – Chairperson, Matt Taylor – Joint MD and John Fleming – Joint MD. Click on our names to connect with us on LinkedIn.

We are seeking to recruit two additional non-executive directors to take on the voluntary, part time roles of:

- Secretary / Treasurer
- Board Member with expertise in media, production or publishing

More information on these roles is available here and we are seeking applications from interested parties – you can apply here.

Thank you

Thank you for your ongoing support – since we launched the podcast in 2020 your support has been incredibly encouraging and enlivening. This podcast and its content is created for you, please continue to send us your feedback, leave reviews and share the podcast with colleagues, friends, family and, where appropriate, clients.
