1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 An Introduction to TA

Transactional analysis (TA) is a theory of human personality, a theory of social behaviour, and a comprehensive system of psychotherapy originated by Eric Berne, MD, (1910-1970), in the late 1950's. Among the attractive features of TA is that it is applicable to situations as diverse as psychotherapy, counselling, educational, coaching, supervision, organisational development, consultation and management training. The term, 'transactional analysis' is generic, like 'history' or 'science' and so is written lower case.

1.2 An Introduction to EATA

The purpose of the European Association for Transactional Analysis is to promote knowledge and research on transactional analysis, to develop its theory, and to ensure agreed standards of practice. It is also to promote co-operation in Europe in the field of transactional analysis.

1.3 Acknowledgements

1989 The first edition of this Training and Examination Handbook was based on the Training Manual originally produced by the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Transaktions-Analyse. The Professional Training and Standards Committee wishes to thank the DGTA for permission to use their work, and to Charlotte Christoph-Lemke for translating the manual into English.

1993 The second edition was compiled by Ian Stewart, the EATA Editor, with major contributions from Mary Cox, then Chair of COC, and Nelly Micholt, past Co-Chair of the Professional Training Standards Committee, (PTSC), and Bernd Kreuzburg, past Co-Chair of PTSC. PTSC is grateful for additional help given by Pio Scilligo and Anne-Marie Guicquéro, then Co-Chairs of PTSC. The proof revisions of the Handbook were co-ordinated with a major revision of the Training and Certification Manual produced by the Training and Certification Council of Transactional Analysts, (T&C), (November 1991). PTSC is grateful to Robin Maslen, then President of ITAA and all who contributed to the revision of the manual.

1997 The third edition was compiled by Ian Stewart, the EATA Editor. It retained the basic format of the second edition but incorporated all the amendments and additions to EATA's policy on training and examinations that had been introduced in the four years from 1993 to 1996.

2003 The fourth edition has been updated and extensively revised by a team drawn from TACC, (members of PTSC and T&C). PTSC gratefully acknowledges the Chair, Charlotte Sills, and the many others who contributed – especially Barbara Traynor for her extensive work on presentation and content and Charlie King for creating the forms. Following a new agreement, this Handbook is accepted as the official manual by TACC: the training bodies of EATA and ITAA. The two handbooks now differ only in the matter of administrative detail.

2008 The fifth edition has been edited and revised by a task force with Dave Spenceley EATA supervising examiner, Charlotte Sills, past chair of PTSC, and Marco Mazzetti, Chair of COC, with the support of Sabine Klingenberg, chair of PTSC. It incorporates all the amendments and additions to EATA's and ITAA's policy on training and examinations that were agreed by TACC and introduced in the five years from 2003 to 2008.

2014 The sixth edition has been edited and revised by a task force with Elyane Alleysson, chair of PTSC, Sue Eusden, Chair of COC, and Marco Mazzetti, past chair of COC and PTSC. It incorporates all the amendments and additions to EATA policy on training and examinations introduced in the years from 2008 to 2014, and regularly published on the PTSC Telegram.

1.6 Explanation of Terms and Abbreviations

The TA 101 is the official introductory course teaching transactional analysis theory and its application. It is a pre-requisite for anyone who wishes to begin training as a Certified Transactional Analyst or CTA. CTAs who have been qualified for over a year and are interested in TA teaching and/or supervising may apply to attend a TEW, a Training Endorsement Workshop. On completion of the workshop and official endorsement of their training contract, the successful candidate may describe themselves as a Provisional Teaching and Supervising Transactional Analyst, PTSTA. Following a period of further training they may go on to qualify as a CTA Trainer or a Teaching and Supervising Transactional Analyst, TSTA. Some may choose to qualify only as a Teaching Transactional Analyst, TTA or a Supervising Transactional Analyst, an STA.

Throughout the training process and after qualification, the candidate will belong to their national or regional TA association in Europe, which will be a member of EATA, the European Association for Transactional Analysis. Within EATA, PTSC, the Professional Training and Standards Committee, is responsible for making decisions on and regulating training standards. The examinations procedure is run by a sub-committee of PTSC called the Commission of Certification, COC.

EATA works closely with the ITAA, which publishes the TAJ, the Transactional Analysis Journal that replaced the TAB, the Transactional Analysis Bulletin. The ITAA follows separate examination regulations and procedures, which are the responsibility of the Professional Standards Committee (PSC); this can be considered the equivalent of EATA's PTSC. The ITAA body responsible for running the accreditation process is the IBOC, the International Board of Certification. Details can be found on the ITAA website.

TAWCS, the Transactional Analysis World Council of Standards, is a coordinating body made up of representatives from EATA, ITAA and FTAA (Australia and New Zealand). Its function is to ensure compatible and appropriate standards of training and certification worldwide.

1.7 The Four Fields

Anyone who trains in transactional analysis can specialise in one or more of four fields, Counselling; Educational; Organisational and Psychotherapy. Further details are given in Section 5. Wherever possible the regulations in this Handbook apply equally to each field, but where necessary there are particular regulations for each of the fields.

1.8 Contact Details

See Appendix 1 at back of the Handbook, which gives contact addresses, office holders, and bank details. The appendix will be updated separately as necessary.

The Euro is the official currency of EATA.
